West Texas Innovation Network Seeks Business Mentors

ABILENE, TEXAS-- The WTIN Mentoring Corps is seeking interested individuals throughout the 19-county West Central Texas area to become mentors who can support and assist mentees in their journey to become a successful entrepreneur. If you've got a little time, a desire to help others be successful in business, understand the value of having someone with more experience who is willing to listen and coach, and have experience as a business or community leader, the WTIN Mentoring Corps needs you.

Individuals interested in being a mentor should visit the WTIN website at www.wtin.org to complete an application. Mentors are needed in Abilene as well as in the rural areas surrounding Abilene. There will be a short orientation held on Friday, November 4 at 11:00 a.m. at the ACU Hunter Center in Abilene in conjunction with the Entrepreneur Bootcamp held on the ACU campus November 4th and 5th. Potential mentors will also have an opportunity to network with potential mentees during the noon luncheon during the Entrepreneur Bootcamp on November 4. Rural mentors not located in Abilene will be welcome to attend this orientation session and attend the luncheon. In addition, rural mentors will have opportunities to link with WTIN mentees located in their respective locales via upcoming rural training sessions scheduled in the week of November 14-18. Rural trainings will be conducted in Brownwood, Snyder, Sweetwater and Haskell.

Additional information regarding the West Texas Innovation Network and the upcoming events may be found on the website: www.wtin.org

Questions regarding the WTIN Mentoring Corps may be directed to Mike Mikeworth, WTIN Project Director, at 325-795-4313 or via e-mail at mike@wtin.org or on the WTIN website at: www.wtin.org.

Funding for the West Texas Innovation Network was provided through a grant from the Texas Workforce Commission.
